China hosts major military parade: China held a large-scale military parade in Beijing to commemorate the 80th anniversary of its victory against "Japanese aggression" in World War II. The event was attended by numerous world leaders, including Russian President Vladimir Putin and North Korean leader Kim Jong Un. China used the parade to unveil some of its latest military hardware for the first time, including jet fighters and missiles.

U.S. President Donald Trump on foreign policy:

President Trump stated that U.S. forces had conducted a strike on a boat allegedly carrying drugs from Venezuela, killing 11 people.

He also continued to express his dissatisfaction with the U.S. trade relationship with India, calling it "one-sided" and citing high Indian tariffs.

Trump also sent a message to the leaders attending the parade in China, accusing them of "conspiring" against the U.S.

Other headlines:

Afghanistan Earthquake: India has delivered 21 tonnes of relief materials to Afghanistan following a 6.0 magnitude earthquake that killed over 1,400 people.

Belgium to recognize Palestine: Belgium has announced its intention to recognize a Palestinian state and impose sanctions on Israel amid the ongoing conflict in Gaza.

UNICEF education warning: The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) has warned that a 24% drop in global education aid by 2026 could leave six million more children out of school.

Syria: Amnesty International has claimed that Syrian government forces and their allies have carried out 46 "executions" of Druze individuals.
