- 1930 – First Round Table Conference begins in London to discuss constitutional reforms in India.

The First Round Table Conference was held from November, 1930 to January 19, 1931. Congress boycotted the First Round Table Conference meeting as the British government refused to consider Congress' demand for Poorna Swaraj.

The First Round Table Conference brought together representatives of the princely states, ethnic populations and the poor. However, without the Congress, there could have been no agreement on Indian issues.

- 2001 - American Airlines' Airbus A-300 crashes in New York, killing 260 passengers.

On November, 2001, American Airlines' Airbus A300B4-605R aircraft crashed in Queens, New York City. 260 people were killed in this accident. These included 251 passengers and 9 crew members. 5 people also died on the ground. It was the second deadliest aviation accident in US history.

After this accident, a terrorist attack was initially suspected. The National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) blamed the wake turbulence generated by Japan Airlines' Boeing 747-400 aircraft for this accident. According to the NTSB, the first officer used excessive rudder control. This put pressure on the vertical stabilizer and it separated from the plane.
